

WARNING

For California Residents

Proposition 65 is a California law requiring manufacturers, distributors, and resellers doing business in the state to include a printed warning on products (or on print or digital information about those products) containing chemicals known to cause cancer or reproductive harm. Even companies not based in California, but whose products or product literature is sold or distributed to California consumers, must observe the law.

www.P65Warnings.ca.gov